

Andrew Yang knows that New York City is the greatest city in the world, but it is in crisis right now. Andrew is running to bring bold ideas and a fresh approach to revive New York City during one of its darkest times. To start, we will prioritize the values we share to lead our city, and live by example by starting with our campaign and supporters.

As we work together with Andrew to lead New York through this crisis, it is critical that we work by putting our humanity first. These values dictate how we run this campaign, how Andrew will govern as Mayor, and how the Yang for New York family will help make all of this happen.

Humanity First

Andrew is on a mission to build a New York City that puts people first. New Yorkers may not agree on everything, but we are all part of this city and the human experience. To move forward we must put our humanity above all else.

Grace & Forgiveness

We are all prone to mistakes and wrong steps. Together we can treat each other with grace and forgiveness so we can learn from our mistakes and move forward.

Integrity & Transparency

Honesty and integrity above all else. We treat our opponents and our colleagues with respect and dignity.

Math & Logic

We prioritize the numbers to help us stay true to a rational approach to complicated problems.

Abundance

There is room for more ideas, people, and actions at the top. We want to increase and expand our coalition by continuing to welcome new strategies and suggestions.

Not Left or Right, Forward

To build a better New York, we need to include all New Yorkers. We welcome New Yorkers of all political backgrounds to help us move this city forward.
